FIRE DRILL

We have organised our regular fire drills in the last two weeks. We involved all members and staff. Safety is our top priority.

A flashback photo of our favourite Easter craft activity. All our members were happy to take home.

The most popular outing this month was a visit to the New Zealand Police Museum. Located on the campus of the Royal New Zealand Police College in Porirua, it was established in 1908. The collection was originally modelled on Scotland Yard's Black Museum. Today the Museum houses and exhibits a large collection of NZ Police memorabilia.

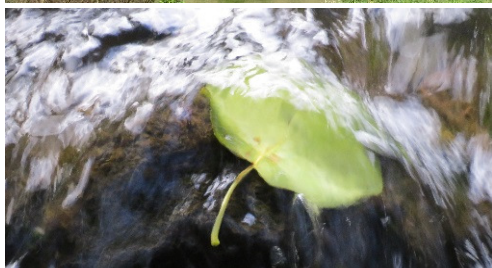

The new art sessions are all about autumn and its beautiful colours. Drawing, painting, colouring are always enjoyable activities and give us the opportunity to express the beauty of nature in our artwork. It also helps our members to keep track of the seasonal changes.

In a modern facility the museum provides education programmes for all ages, using examples of policing excellence and also telling the stories of some of the countries more infamous crimes. Marlene and few of our members tried on some police uniforms. Don't worry Marlene won't change her career, even if she looks great in that uniform.

We regularly implement new activities into our program. Some of the new activities are: Mystery sounds, mystery drives, and the hidden objects game. These games provide stimulation, lots of fun, excitement and variety for our members.

We love to be here
